Third World War Threat Very Real, Declares Truman

Washington (AP) — President Truman yesterday proclaimed 1952 a "crucial year" in the struggle of the United States and the free world to re-arm against the threat of world war three.

Warning that Soviet Russia is expanding her armed might, atomically and otherwise, the President declared solemnly that the threat of another global conflict is still "very real."

And he appealed to Congress to avoid "political fights" that might harm the nation in this presidential election year.

With Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain listening intently in the gallery—and a huge unseen audience following his words by coast-to-coast radio and television—Mr. Truman told a joint session of Congress:

"The world still walks in the shadow of another world war... the United States and the whole free world are passing through a period of grave danger... we are moving through a perilous time... faced with a terrible threat of aggression."

Such was the grim tenor that ran through much of the President's annual "State of the Union" message in which he staunchly defended his leadership and scoffed at his critics as "timid and fearful men who wring their hands and cry out that we have lost the way."

Echoing the late President Roosevelt's dictum that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself," Mr. Truman said in commenting on the cold war with Russia:

"The only thing that can defeat us is our own state of mind. We can lose if we falter. We must reject the counsels of defeat and despair."

In general, Mr. Truman pledged this country to help build up the free world's defenses against the threat of aggression and to seek peace by following the "hard road" between war and appeasement.

In broad outline, the President sketched the legislative program he would like Congress to adopt in the months ahead—largely a renewed but somewhat soft-pedaled plea for the domestic policies he calls his "Fair Deal": civil rights, Federal aid to education, improved social security benefits, stronger farm price supports, and national health insurance.

Mr. Truman threw out a hint of possibly higher taxes, saying he would talk about that subject in a later message. He said he will soon ask for an increase in the nation's armed forces, notably in air power. And he called for stronger economic controls, enactment of "a strong anti-inflation law."

"Our stabilization law was shot full of holes at the last session," Mr. Truman said in an obvious reference to congressional amendments which have permitted some prices to rise as production costs go up.

Mr. Truman held out hope that by 1945 the nation can ease up on armament production. Meanwhile, he recommended, among other things, "some increases" in the size of the armed forces with particular emphasis on air power.

While he declared dollar volume of military goods produced has tripled in the last year, the President said delays had been encountered in producing new planes and tanks, and that machine tools and metals are in short supply.

Lawmakers on both sides of the aisle, Democrats and Republicans, gave Mr. Truman a standing one-minute ovation as he entered the crowded House chamber exactly on the dot of 12:30 p. m.

Prime Minister Churchill and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden rose to join in the ovation, as did Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

The President spoke forcefully of keeping up the fight in Korea "until we get the kind of armistice that will put an end to the aggression and protect the safety of our armed forces" there.

To the disappointment of many, who had hoped to find some between-the-lines clue, Mr. Truman gave no hint whether he will run for re-election. His only comment along that line came when he said: "This will be a presidential election year—the kind of year in which politics plays a larger part in our lives than usual. That is perfectly proper. But we have a great responsibility to conduct our political fights in a manner that does not harm the national interest."

"When everything is said and done, all of us—Republicans and Democrats alike—all of us are Americans; and we are all going to sink or swim together."

Reaction among the lawmakers to the President's 5,200-word address was about as expected: Democrats commended it; Republicans glibed.

Rep. A. J. Altmeyer, D-Ill., the GOP whip in the House, commented: "It looks like the tow line has parted and the ship of state is floundering. We must call a Republican rescue tug."

House Majority Leader McCord

President Urges More Aid For Free Countries

Washington (AP) — President Truman, in his State of the Union message, warned that mankind still "walks in the shadow" of another world war.

He called for more military aid to free nations, and economic aid too, saying "stomach Communism" (born of hunger) must be conquered.

On the home front, he called for a moratorium on political bitterness, improved Social Security benefits, stronger farm price supports, civil rights legislation, Federal aid to education and other "Fair Deal" measures.

He threw out a hint of a possible request later for higher taxes.

On the issue of corruption, he said "unworthy public servants must be weeded out."

Two Leaders Pledge Solid Anti-Red Front

Washington (AP) — President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill bridged their split over China policy yesterday in proclaiming a solid Anglo-American front against the Communist threat in Asia and the Middle East as well as Europe.

In a communique issued shortly after Churchill left for New York and Ottawa, they also formally announced that American use of atomic bombs in England is subject to joint decision with the British government in time of emergency. Churchill had sought this assurance from Truman in writing.

In addition, they threw their full support and prestige behind efforts of six Western European nations to form a European defense force, with Germany "as a full and equal partner."

The two leaders stressed the agreements they reached, but failed to solve at least two differences: One — Whether they should adopt an American or British rifle as their standard equipment.

Two — Whether an American or British admiral should be given joint command of Atlantic pact forces.

The communique also made plain there had been no agreement on the specific issue of diplomatic relations with Red China, which Britain recognizes and the United States does not.

But the communique emphasized the view that this difference is overshadowed by the two leaders' agreement that there is an "overriding need to counter the Communist threat" in the Far East.

Senator McFarland of Arizona, Democratic leader, called it "very constructive."

While the President was still reading his message, six leading House Republicans, led by Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts, sent a statement to the press gallery attacking the speech as "a compendium of campaign-year fictions and promises."

They said Mr. Truman's message was "notable for two things":

One — The only solution the administration has to offer to meet the worldwide Communist conspiracy is arms and more arms;

Two — The only solution this administration has for all other problems is spending and more spending.

Departing from his prepared text, Mr. Truman borrowed a phrase familiar to European nations with strong Communist parties, in declaring that the free world must conquer "stomach Communism" to win against the Soviets.

This was an allusion to the reputed appeal of Communism to hungry or starving people.

In his ad libbed passage, Mr. Truman said:

"Less than one-third of the expenditures for the cost of World War Two would have created developments necessary to feed the whole world so we would not have stomach Communism."

"That is what we have to fight, and unless we fight that battle and win it, we cannot win the cold war or a hot one, either."

Enterprise Riding Out New Storm; Preparations Made To Rescue Pair

Ship Takes On Water, Rides Lower

London, Thursday (AP) — The broken and battered American freighter Flying Enterprise was riding out another Atlantic storm early today. U.S. Navy reports from the scene predicted with some reserve that she would be ready for renewed attempts to take her in tow again at daylight.

The Navy report said the heavy weather worried Capt. Kurt Carlsen, but he and his one companion on the helplessly drifting ship hung on doggedly. With the captain is First Mate Kenneth Dancy of the British tugboat Tugboat.

The Enterprise, listing as much as 80 degrees as she rolled in a new gale, still was taking on water and was riding lower.

A midnight (7 p. m., EST) report to U.S. Navy headquarters in London said the sea was running up 10-foot swells.

The Enterprise was about 30 miles south and three miles east of the Lizard, England's southernmost point.

"Enterprise still has good righting moment," the report continued, "with no change in list or roll at 2,000 hours (8 p. m.). In radio conference Carlsen expressed appreciation for message from parents. Said he was deeply touched to know so many people in world interested in seeing little Flying Enterprise safely reach port."

"Plans for rigging tow include rigging lines around bits and butts to give Carlsen and Dancy firmer footing from which to work."

"No attempts to be made before daylight. Weather still makes any plan impossible now."

The lifesaving ship Satellite, with breeches-buoy and rough seas hoist-launching equipment, set out early today from Penzance to join the Flying Enterprise convoy. Her job is to be ready with her variety of rescue gear in case of extreme emergency if Carlsen and Dancy must jump from a sinking ship.

Carlsen was entering the 16th day of his ordeal, much of it spent alone.

The dark hours of stormy peril passed slowly aboard the vessel standing by the Enterprise.

Preparations have been made to rescue Carlsen and Dancy if the Enterprise begins to sink.

The night was long, too, at Falmouth, the port Carlsen had hoped to reach yesterday and where his parents flown from Denmark, are awaiting him.

From the Associated Press' chartered tug, the Englishman, near the Enterprise, Correspondent Alvin Steinkopf reported by radio: "Wind freshening but ship drifting uneventfully. Sea increasingly rough. 'The outlook may be dubious,' Steinkopf reported."

British Royal Air Force Lancaster bombers circled over the scene, prepared to drop collapsible dinghies near the crippled ship if Carlsen and Dancy must jump for their lives.

But Carlsen and Dancy hung on doggedly. The U. S. Destroyer Wilard Keith which has stood guard over the listing Enterprise for days, reported the captain appeared in good spirits despite his worsening plight.

Douglas Sees Ike Elected

Boston, (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said yesterday if the Republicans nominate General Eisenhower he will—barring a miracle—"be elected by an overwhelming vote."

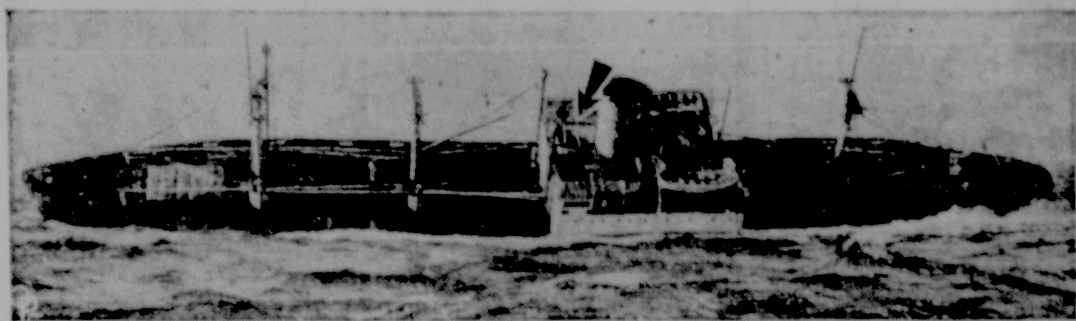

He made the statement at a news conference here. Chairman of a Senate subcommittee on corruption, he is here to give three lectures at Harvard on ethics in government.

Douglas said "General enthusiasm for the general and the desire for a change" would assure Eisenhower's election.

He suggested that if the GOP selects Eisenhower, the Democrats should also nominate him—with a different vice presidential candidate.

Churchill In New York

New York (AP) — Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived from Washington last night for a two-day rest at the home of an old friend, financier Bernard Baruch.

45 Crewmen Abandon Ship

San Francisco, (AP) — The SS Cygnit III radioed last night that the 45-man crew of the stricken American freighter Pennsylvania abandoned ship at 4:30 p. m., in the storm-tossed North Pacific.

The message from the Cygnit was intercepted at 7:30 p. m. by the RCA Radio-Marine station at Bolinas Point, Calif.

It said the crew had abandoned the Pennsylvania — which earlier had reported a 14-foot gash in her steel hull—and that a radar search was in progress for the Pennsylvania's four life boats.

The Pennsylvania was en route from Vancouver to Japan with a general cargo. Its position at nightfall was about 875 miles northwest of Seattle.

The crew apparently abandoned the ship just two minutes after radioing at 4:28 p. m. (7:28 p. m., EST):

"We are going to abandon ship."

Americans Cheer Russian Soldiers At Sports Event

Vienna, Austria, (AP) — A group of Russian soldiers danced at an American-sponsored sports event here last night.

GIs cheered them lustily. It was the first time since the end of World War Two that troops from the east and west have mingled here on such a friendly footing.

The appearance of the Russians at the "International Sports Night" in an American Army recreation hall in Vienna was unexpected. They were invited three weeks ago, but they didn't accept until today.

French and British occupation troops also took part.

House Expected To Raise Pay For Servicemen

Washington (AP) — The House unanimously agreed yesterday to consider a 10 per cent pay increase for the armed forces at next Tuesday's session.

The fact that no one objected to taking up the bill indicates it will be passed.

The bill provides for a 10 per cent cost of living increase in basic pay, subsistence and quarters allowances for those on active service and the same boost for all receiving retirement pay. It would become effective on the first of the month following enactment.

Estimates are that the pay boost would cost $32 million dollars a year.

Commission Drops Plans To Change Milk-Pricing Method

Harrisburg, (AP) — The Pennsylvania Milk Control commission yesterday dropped plans to change the method by which it determines the price of milk for housewives and producers.

Chairman H. N. Cobb said the commission has decided to retain the present system which provides hearings before the commission involving persons who wish to change the current price of milk and those favoring or opposing the change.

The system which had been under consideration would have utilized indexes of prices of various farm products averaged out to a certain figure. If this figure fell within a certain range the price for producers would be set at a certain price for producers and consumers. As soon as the index changed the price could be changed.

The present system is based on the seasonal pricing theory of the milk industry. This theory says that at certain times of the year more milk is available than at

VA Announces $200 Million Dividend On GI Insurance; Average Payment To Be $60

Washington, (AP) — A dividend of 200 million dollars will be paid this year—starting in March—to about five million holders of National Service Life Insurance, the Veterans administration announced yesterday.

This will be the first dividend on such insurance held by veterans and servicemen, VA said. Previously the VA has paid two special dividends on NSLI, one in 1948 and the second last year.

The 1948 dividend totaled $2,800,000,000 and went to nearly 16 million persons. The dividend last year was estimated at $83 million and was paid to about six million policy holders.

The payment to the vast majority of policyholders will be $60, VA officials said.

With the first payments starting in March, the VA plans to follow through as soon after the anniversary dates of the individual policies as possible. It said the wait for the dividend will not be as long as it was for the previous dividends.

Generally speaking, the VA said, the dividend rate to individuals will be the same as the 1951 payment. This amounted, in most instances, to 50 cents for each $1,000 of insurance for each month the insurance was in force.

To be eligible, the policyholder must have paid premiums on the policy for any three or more months between the 1951 and 1952 anniversary dates of the policy.

The VA is sending out special forms to policy holders which may be used to request the dividend in cash.

It also pointed out that veterans who have converted their insurance to permanent plans—such as ordinary life or endowment policies—may ask the VA in writing to put the dividend on deposit.

The policy holder may also ask the VA in writing to apply the dividend as advance payment on premiums falling due after the 1952 anniversary date of the policy.

Heavy Fighting Halts In Korea

Seoul, Korea, Thursday (AP) — Heavy fighting halted on one western front battlefield Wednesday but flared nearby. Smaller clashes erupted on the eastern Korean front near Heartbreak ridge.

Red MIG jet planes stayed at home. Allied fighters and bombers loosed a double-barreled attack against front line enemy artillery positions and link rails far to the rear.

The U.S. Eighth Army communique for the first time in 13 days made no mention of the bloody Sasi bulge battle only six miles northeast of the truce conference site at Panmunjom.

Other times and therefore the price should be adjusted accordingly. Thus, if more milk is available the price should be lower and when milk is scarce the price should be higher.

The proposed system was sent to Attorney General Robert E. Woodside for a ruling on its constitutionality. He declared favorably and it appeared the system would be put into effect this month.

But Cobb said the commission never took any more action on the proposal than to "consider it." He pointed out that numerous hearings and private sessions with dairy industry spokesmen would have been necessary to determine whether the system would be worthwhile.

UN Group Postpones Korean Debate

Paris, (AP) — The U. N. Political committee yesterday killed Russia's attempt to place the Korean truce negotiations before the Security Council and then postponed consideration of the whole Korean issue until an armistice is reached at Panmunjom.

The committee's action could have the effect of taking the Korean issue out of this sixth General Assembly unless an armistice is reached before mid-February, when the delegates hope to adjourn.

The vote against Russia's demand that the Korean negotiations be referred to a high level meeting of the Security Council — where the Russians have used the veto often — was 40 to six. Burma joined the Soviet bloc in this vote. There were 11 abstentions.

The committee then recommended that the Security Council have a top-level session whenever the council believed such a meeting would remove international tensions and help friendly relations between countries. The vote for this was 50 in favor and none opposed. Eight countries—Argentina, Yugoslavia, India, Indonesia, Guatemala, Chile, Nationalist China and Greece—abstained.

After an acrimonious debate, the committee next voted 47 to 6 for an American proposal to postpone the Korean item on the business sheet until an armistice is reached. The Soviet bloc and Chile voted against postponement. Three countries abstained.

The final vote on a resolution recommending a Security Council meeting of foreign ministers or chiefs of state whenever the council feels the time is ripe produced the rare spectacle of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Vishinsky voting beside British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd and U. S. Delegate Benjamin Cohen in the majority.

Eight Men To Report Today For Induction

Eight county men were ordered to report for induction this morning at the draft board in the Stroudsburg post office.

They will be taken from Stroudsburg to the main induction station at Wilkes-Barre.

Inductees are Melvin L. Johnson, Scotrun; John H. Bowman, Swiftwater; Charles Jacob, Saylorsburg; Raymond L. Mery, Stroudsburg; and Kenneth L. Repsher, George R. Hoke, Harry F. Smith and Richard H. Thomas, all of East Stroudsburg.

Many Civilian Goods Face Further Slash

Washington, (AP) — Congress got the grim news yesterday that the mobilization program has reached the point of direct choice between guns and butter and the preference is going to guns.

That was the substance of testimony by Manly Fleischmann, defense production administrator, before the Senate-House Preparedness committee.

Except in reference to the scarce metal, nickel, he did not phrase it just that way. But he made the point emphatically in an outline of the cuts planned in output of major civilian items for the quarter year beginning April 1:

Major household goods — such things as television sets, radio, refrigerator and toasters — to 45 per cent of the pre-Korea level, down 10 per cent from present production rates.

New houses — cut from the present annual rate of $20,000 to $60,000.

Automobiles — at least 7 per cent below the current rate.

The production chief said "military requirements have been met" in the allocation of scarce materials and "the question of guns against butter has not been squarely presented up to now."

Truce Talks Stall Again

Munsan, Korea, Thursday, (AP) — Korean truce talks reached the half-year mark today in a tight deadlock over restricting Communist airfield construction in North Korea during an armistice.

The United Nations command also was unable to budge the Reds yesterday from demands for forced repatriation of all prisoners held by the Allies without regard for the wishes of the individuals.

The Allies want repatriation on a voluntary basis.

Efforts to untangle these issues resumed in Panmunjom today. Subcommittees handling prisoner exchange and truce supervision met at 11 a. m.

(Whether the defeat of a Russian attempt to force the Korean truce negotiations into a special high-level meeting of the Security Council at Paris would speed up the talks in Panmunjom remained to be seen. The Soviet proposal was voted down 40 to 6 by the U. N. Political committee).

Washington (AP) — Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said yesterday his doctor had told him to go home and go to bed to try to get rid of a cold, and fever.

As he left a Senate luncheon for Anthony Eden of Great Britain, Taft was asked if he planned to issue a formal statement on President Truman's State of the Union message.

He replied that he did not think so because of his severe cold.

Kiwanis Club To Observe Ladies Night

Stroudsburg Kiwanis club held a round table meeting at the Penn-Stroud hotel yesterday afternoon when final arrangements for the ladies' night observance Friday night at 6:30 at the hotel were announced.

The affair will be informal and following the dinner, entertainment will be furnished by Dr. Stanley S. Jaks, of New York City, handwriting expert.

Music for the dancing, 9:30 p. m. to 1 a. m., will be furnished by Tiny Kulowitch and his band from Allentown. The musicians will also furnish special entertainment.

LeRoy D. Trexler, Allentown, lieutenant governor of the 12th division, Pennsylvania district, Kiwanis International, and Mrs. Trexler will be special guests. John E. Watt will MC the program.

Elwood Hintze is chairman of the committee of arrangements. No speeches.

Gilbert L. Smrz, the new president, was in charge of the round table gathering yesterday and read an article on inflation which brought out its many causes and effects.

Robert Hilton was welcomed back to the club following an extended illness and led the singing with Numa Snyder at the piano. Rev. Ralph H. Feltham gave the invocation.

Visiting Kiwanians welcomed by President Smrz were George H. Strimel, of Irvington, N. Y., and P. J. Rawson, of Scranton.

Fish Commission Reduces Creel Limit To Eight Trout

Trout fishing enthusiasts face the 1952 season, opening at 5 a. m. April 15, with a day's creel limit cut from ten to eight trout, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission announced yesterday.

Stocking of local streams, according to Fish Warden Floyd Bachman, will start here in February, instead of March. One of the main reasons is that low water here and elsewhere prevented Fall stocking last year.

The commission said the action taken to cut the creel daily limit is in response to "a vast amount of recommendations from fishermen and clubs all over the state including a resolution unanimously adopted by the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's clubs."

Penalties for exceeding the day's limit will remain the same as last year.

Public fishing in the state is no longer a quest for food but has become a definite recreational diversion, commission officials said. Additionally, they said, sound conservation is served, especially since there is an ever increasing number of fishermen.

Harrisburg, Pa.—A Revenue department spokesman said yesterday 1952 fishing license applications and buttons are now available at all county treasurers' offices.

At the same time the spokesman said other accredited agents will have the applications and buttons by the end of this month.

The announcement clears up a dilemma which the department ones became available. The spokesman said the 1951 can still be used until the end of the month.

After the manufacturer told Fish commission officials he would be unable to meet the deadline, the commission sought the aid of the Revenue department in ironing out the problem.

The Revenue department then ruled that the fishermen could use their 1951 licenses until the new

Mrs. Otis Alger, Authority On Indian Lore, Dies At 51 After Illness Of 18 Months

Tannersville—Mrs. Clara J. Alger, 51, an authority on Indian lore and crafts and operator with her husband, Otis Alger, of Pocono Pottery shop here for 20 years, died at 8 p. m. Tuesday in St. Luke's hospital, Bethlehem, after an illness of 18 months.

Mrs. Alger was born in Newark, N. J., August 22, 1899. She was widely known in many sections of the nation because of her deep interest in Indian lore and crafts. She established the Pocono Pottery shop 20 years ago and later added an extensive line of antiques.

Her interest in this field led her through many trips to the Indian reservations in the Southwest and Mexico, where she accumulated many Indian relics and souvenirs. Through arrangements made with U. S. Indian agents, Mrs. Alger was able to bring a group of Indians each year to Tannersville where they could be seen doing their handicraft, including pottery, rug weaving, bead work and creation of silver jewelry.

These groups were from the Pueblo, Sioux and Catawba Reservations.

The only Indian baby born in General hospital was born to one of the Catawba Indians, Mrs. Sarah Priscilla Sanders, who came here under Mrs. Alger's sponsorship. Deep friendship which existed between the two women resulted in the child being named Clara, after Mrs. Alger.

Mrs. Alger had joined her husband's interest in promotion and development of Tannersville from the standpoint of business, residential and civic improvements.

Survivors include her husband; mother, Regula W. Buschor, Scotrun, Pa.; brother, Frank E. Buschor, Hempstead, L. I., N. Y.

Mrs. Alger was a member of the Methodist church, Irvington, N. J., and attended the local Methodist church where she was active.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg. Rev. LeRoy Bernard, Tannersville Methodist, will officiate. Interment will be made in Tannersville Methodist cemetery.

Rites Conducted For N. E. Durant

Milford, Pa.—Lloyd J. Gumble, Tafton, Pa., was elected chairman of the Pike County Commissioners during reorganizations proceedings this week.

Commissioners elected Attorney Sidney L. Krawitz to the important post of county solicitor.

Frank O. LeCompte, Dingmans Township, has been selected to act as chief clerk. Mr. LeCompte will also serve as chief assessor.

Cora M. Struble, Milford, was named assistant to the chief clerk.

Robert Smith, Blooming Grove Township, will serve as inspector of weights and measures, and James M. McLaughlin has been hired as janitor of the court house.

Andy Spotts, Milford, has been retained as director of veterans affairs in Pike County.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends no less than 52 pounds of protein foods per person per year.

Slutter Funeral Held Yesterday

Services for Mrs. Sarah Ellen Slutter, 86, Swiftwater, who died Sunday, were held yesterday at Gantzhorn funeral home, Tannersville, with Rev. Garnett Zimmerman, Swiftwater, officiating. Burial was at St. Paul's Reformed church cemetery, Swiftwater. Pallbearers were Thomas McGuire, Nelson Miller, George Haskin and Alvin Niering.

5 helpful tips to mattress shoppers

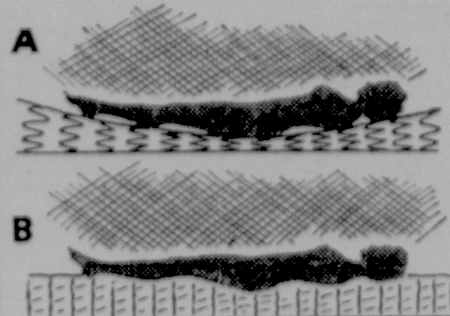

1 Mattresses—like books—seldom can be judged by their covers! That's why it's so important to know what's inside the mattress you buy. For instance...

2 In the ordinary inner-spring mattress, the coil springs are all wired together. When one coil is pressed down, others joined to it go down too. This causes uncomfortable sags and hollows.

3 But Beautyrest's unique construction prevents sags and hollows! Beautyrest has 837 individually pocketed coil springs—not wired together! Each coil spring acts as a separate cushioning unit... gives your body "tailor made" comfort!

4 Compare the difference! Above (a), see how joined inner-spring coils often sag down together. But below (b) see how a non-sagging Beautyrest cushions and supports your back firmly and naturally!

5 Based on "third degree" tests by the U. S. Testing Company, Beautyrest is guaranteed against structural defects for 10 years. (With reasonable care, it will outlive this guarantee a long time.)

Don't Hang The Wrong Man

(From The Wall Street Journal)

Before anyone leaps to the conclusion from what follows that we have forgotten how much meat costs these days, we'll report that we have just returned gloomily from a Saturday shopping expedition with the family's chief purchasing agent. What we saw—and what we heard afterwards—keeps the matter vividly in mind.

Still, we feel bound to take note of some interesting phenomena about the eating habits of the country in the face of the manifest fact that meat prices are higher than heretofore. They are high, and we have heard so much about their height from politicians, labor leaders and assorted economists that we had gotten the impression our fellow Americans had ceased eating meat altogether.

Well, the final figures aren't in yet, but the Department of Agriculture and officials of the Stanford University Food Research Institute have come up with some preliminary totals that are rather surprising.

The Agriculture Department does note a drop in total meat-eating, but in spite of the high prices throughout the year and the fact that for a while there really was a shortage of meat (remember the pictures of empty corrals in the old stockyards?) Americans cut their total meats rations only four pounds per person last year, or barely a few grains a day. Even after that decline each of us still ate more meat last year than in the halcyon days before World War Two when meat was so cheap.

That the meat-eaters were so undeterred by the high price of meat is only one phenomenon. Dr. Karl Brandt of the Stanford Institute reports that if you limit this only to the major meats like beef, veal and lamb (which we don't mind doing) our fellow citizens are eating far better than formerly. The per person consumption of beef and its major substitutes is 23 per cent higher than in the pre-war, cheaper price days. Dr. Brandt found "the most striking thing" about changes in our eating habits in the successive booms, including this one, is the shift to higher quality food.

So here is the curious thing. We are told on every hand how terrible it is that meat prices have gotten so high the average person can't afford to buy it, and yet the average person not only goes on buying it but is shifting his knife and fork into the better quality and the highest priced of the meats.

But of course it is not really so curious, except to the politicians and assorted economists. The real reason for the rise in meat prices is that so many people have so much more money which they are willing to spend on meat. Meat may be priced "high" but it is not priced high in terms of the amount of labor that the average worker needs to earn it.

This so easily forgotten fact can be easily seen if you will just turn the thing around. If the average housewife didn't have more money to spend on meat, or weren't willing to spend it, meat prices would never have gotten so "high." And if she decides not to spend it meat prices will come down promptly.

The statistics simply belabor the point that meat prices like all the rest are the result of more money chasing the goods. The high prices that haunt Mr. DiSalle aren't put there by the cattle grower or the butcher; they're put there by those who inflate the money. And if Mr. DiSalle tries to cure high prices by hanging the butcher, he'll string up the wrong man.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The London Daily Mail carries a story with a British East Africa headline that should give down-trodden pedestrians a glimmer of hope. Seems a bicyclist was peddling furiously around a blind curve on a highway in Uganda when he ran spang into an elephant, and landed head-over-heels in a bush nearby. The pachyderm, obviously nettled, seized the bicycle in his trunk, whirled it aloft for a few moments hurriedly at the crestfallen bicyclist, and ambled off into the gloaming. Try this system the next time a ten-ton truck bears down on you while you're trying to cross the street on a green light!

"I'm getting mighty exhausted contesting my wife's will," admitted Mr. Hecubar to a confidante. "I never knew she had died," said the shocked confidante. "That's the trouble," sighed Mr. Hecubar. "She didn't."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Some Hollywoodians argue there's a trend away from extremely handsome leading men to more rugged types—Burt Lancaster, Robert Ryan, Paul Douglas. But Tyrone Power, who's usually cited as one of the longer-established, so-called "pretty boys," disagrees.

"There've always been the rugged types of leading men," he maintained. " . . . Milton Sills, George Bancroft. Stardom doesn't have a lot to do with looks. I wouldn't say a lot of female stars are beautiful, if you take them apart feature by feature."

"You can't deny that Montgomery Clift is good-looking, and he's popular at the moment. And John Derek. I don't think M-G-M hesitated to put Bob Taylor in 'Quo Vadis' because he happened to be a good-looking fellow."

"This business of being handsome or not is like the weather. You can't do anything about it. You might as well do the best with what you have. If the sum total of a person's ambition is to be handsome, he's got a short road ahead of him."

Even Ty's features aren't perfect, if you take them apart. The nose could almost be described as knobby. As he headed for a scene in "Diplomatic Courier," I asked if he has any bad camera angles. "Never gave any thought to it," Ty said. "That's a (cusswords) waste of time!"

Another handsome fellow, John Agar, told me the other day, "I feel kinda like I'm starting all over again."

Shirley Temple's ex-husband recently completed two months in the sheriff's honor farm for drunk driving. He said he hasn't had a drop of anything alcoholic since May. Of his brush with the law, he added: "It's something I don't want ever to have happen again." At the moment, he was playing a key role in a picture called "Minnesota." Between films he takes lessons three days a week for a new, sidelin career—theater and nightclub singer.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Eighty-One Dollars

On March 15, I, being self-employed, will have to give the Internal Revenue Bureau $81. I have no wish to give them $81. They say it is some kind of insurance for my old age. I carry my own insurance with reputable companies that operate on an actuarial basis, set up adequate reserves, are inspected by state insurance commissions.

To me, this $81 is just another tax. I shall pay it under protest because I am convinced that it is a double tax and therefore unconstitutional. Were I as courageous as Vivien Kellems, I should not pay this tax because there is no sense in it.

Certainly there is nothing in the constitution that provides that the government can force me to insure myself and select the agency for me. Not even the "welfare" phrase in the preamble warrants such an extension of governmental authority.

The reason I am involved in this payment is that I have chosen to take the risks of being self-employed. Nobody needs to pay me when I do not work. Nobody can limit me to a 40-hour week. Nobody is under a contract to provide a pension. I run my own life, take my own risks, and am doing all right, thank you.

Some people like what they call security. By that they mean that they wish to be assured that nothing untoward will happen to them. How anyone can gain such a favorable situation in life, I do not know. For instance, what is security worth when the currency is constantly losing its value? Or, what security is there in a state of constant war and preparation for war?

I was talking to the redoubtable Vivien Kellems, manufacturer of Stonington, Connecticut, successful rebel against the Internal Revenue Bureau's insistence upon every employer becoming a tax-collector without compensation and at his own expense.

Vivien Kellems told me of a friend who had gone through life without ever voting. This woman did not interest herself in politics, although she talked favorably of the New Deal and the United Nations and such revolutionary concepts.

Her own life had been tragic. Her husband was killed in an airplane accident, leaving her with a son and another one a month on its way. After the second son was born, she went to work and devoted all the years of her life to her sons, never marrying, never interrupting her sacrifices. And now her boys are on their way to Korea.

That woman is now interested in politics. She has come to recognize that the ugly word, politics, is not simply a matter of voting for one politician against another; it means the preservation of the family; it means participating in decisions which protect life and property and the social traditions of a people.

She lives in a poll tax state and she is paying up all her poll taxes in arrears, so that she can vote in the next election.

There are millions of American women who have avoided politics, but some of them, like the housewives in Marshall, Tex., who refuse to be tax collectors, are now pushing forward politically. If a million of them become articulate, they will alter the face of American politics. Their force can be legion.

And so a new organization of women is springing up in this country and is already measurable in Texas, Oklahoma and California. They call themselves the "Liberty Belles." Their motto is:

"Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof; and ye shall return every man unto his possession, and every man unto his family." Their program is simply stated:

"1. The eradication of all socialism. Communism and corruption from our American life.

"2. The revision and reduction of all taxes and of all government spending.

"3. The return to Congress of the right to declare war so that never again, on the whim of the President, can American boys be sent to foreign lands to be shot."

Their insignia is a metal Liberty bell, for which they pay one dollar. There is a smaller label bell for members of the masculine auxiliary for which the charge is $2.00. To join, one signs the pledge, pays the fee and goes to work politically.

Thus far, there is no evidence of political partisanship in this movement. It is women on the rampage for their homes and sons.

What will become of this, it is impossible to say, but such movements have appeared in American life before and have swept the politicians before them.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, Jan. 9 — Every member of the United States Senate should be required to read the resolution of the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association opposing the United Nations Covenant on Human Rights.

This super-government proposal tampers with the liberties of Americans. It will soon be presented to the U.S. Senate for ratification after the General Assembly of the United Nations is asked to approve the plan. Should the Senate adopt the proposal, United Nations rules and regulations presumably would supersede the American Constitution.

For instance, the Covenant, at the insistence of the Soviet Union, includes a provision that would force member nations to "provide legislation" to assure the right of all to medical service and attention in the event of sickness. In other words, "by United Nations fiat, the U.S. would be required to socialize its medicine."

In another clause, the Covenant states that higher education "shall be made progressively free." In other words, federal financing for all college students, a socialistic dream that has gained numerous converts in U.S. educational circles. It would mean the end of freedom from government control for all liberal arts colleges.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, U.S. representative to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, is responsible for still another socialistic scheme that was adopted. This one makes it mandatory for the various governments to "provide the right to work" for its citizens. This could only be done, of course, with a totally managed economy, wherein wages and working conditions are set by international law, and not by collective bargaining between management and labor.

It would be interesting to witness the reaction of some of our labor leaders—say, for example, the bosses of the garment workers industry—when they are told that United Nations tribunals orders them to reduce U.S. garment industry wages to the level of some foreign nation, so as to bring prices and working conditions in line with plans of the super-socialists.

I doubt if they would feel so global-minded, as many profess to do today.

When the House of Delegates of the ABA got through examining this mess of socialistic potage, it adopted the following recommendation:

"Resolved, that the American Bar Association is of the opinion that the draft International Covenant on Human Rights as prepared at the 1951 session of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights is not in such form nor of such content as to be suitable for approval and adoption by the General Assembly of the United Nations, or for ratification by the United States of America."

After this start, ABA delegates tackled the subject from the standpoint of treaties. The ABA resolution calls upon Congress to "Amend the Constitution so as to provide that in legislating to give effect to treaties Congress shall make no law not otherwise authorized by the Constitution," and says that "the powers reserved to the states and to the people, shall not be abolished nor altered by any treaty or executive agreement, nor otherwise than by Constitutional amendment."

This would stop the global socialists in their tracks. And it should be done. They want to tamper with press freedom and our civil rights in court, as well as the other schemes involving education, job rights and health. For instance, they are proposing an international criminal court for the trial of world citizens, including Americans. The ABA says this one smells worse than the Covenant on Human Rights, an opinion I think most Americans would assume to be correct.

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

It's just too bad that people don't understand dog language.

Otherwise they would know what Wag'n meant when he barked at Mrs. Schwartz and Mr. Schwartz of the Bronx in New York, and also at Judge Leonard McGee in his Magistrate's court.

It seems that Wag'n, a two-year-old beagle, got lost last April. Mrs. Leonard Schwartz, a fireman's wife, looked all over the Bronx for him, but couldn't find him.

But last month she saw the dog in front of her house and reclaimed him.

Mr. Frank H. Schwab, Jr., a health department employee, found out where the dog was and got a summons for Mrs. Schwartz.

He said she was unlawfully withholding the dog and he wanted it back.

He stated that he had found the animal very sick, without identification tags and undernourished, and that he took him home and nursed him back to health.

So Mrs. Schwartz, Mr. Schwab, and Wag'n, all went to court and left it to Magistrate McGee to decide who the rightful owner was.

The judge, in the role of Solomon, sat back on the bench and watched the whole business.

Mrs. Schwartz called the dog. He came running to her, wagged his tail and licked her face.

Then came the verdict: "The dog belongs to Mrs. Schwartz. I am sorry for you, Mr. Schwab. But by your own admission you found the dog for which Mrs. Schwartz had taken out a license. You have no legal claim."

"But I am glad that Wag'n is in good hands."

Mrs. Schwartz and Mr. Schwab shook hands, Wag'n wagged his tail, and everybody went home.

By the way, I told you about Hilda, the new dog in our neighborhood.

Not being able to resist the wiles of dogs, I made the mistake of feeding her tidbits the first time she came around.

Now she not only practically lives at our place, but she is followed every day by dogs from miles around. (Hilda is a handsome female.)

Apparently she has told her admirers where there is a sucker for dogs—and thus she can take all her friends to lunch at my expense and make a good impression on them for being such a fine hostess.

If you are looking for a moral to this story—there ain't any.

Mr. Schwab called the dog—only he called him Lad. But apparently that did not make any difference to Wag'n.

He came running to him, wagged his tail and licked his face.

Then, to make the whole business even more difficult, he came running up to the judge, wagged his tail and—started to lick HIS face, when a bailiff interfered and took him off the judge's bench.

The bailiff, of course, pending the magistrate's decision, had to hold the dog in his arms, and got HIS face-licked.

Then came the verdict: "The dog belongs to Mrs. Schwartz. I am sorry for you, Mr. Schwab. But by your own admission you found the dog for which Mrs. Schwartz had taken out a license. You have no legal claim."

"But I am glad that Wag'n is in good hands."

Mrs. Schwartz and Mr. Schwab shook hands, Wag'n wagged his tail, and everybody went home.

By the way, I told you about Hilda, the new dog in our neighborhood.

Not being able to resist the wiles of dogs, I made the mistake of feeding her tidbits the first time she came around.

Now she not only practically lives at our place, but she is followed every day by dogs from miles around. (Hilda is a handsome female.)

Apparently she has told her admirers where there is a sucker for dogs—and thus she can take all her friends to lunch at my expense and make a good impression on them for being such a fine hostess.

If you are looking for a moral to this story—there ain't any.

The Once Over

Lights! Camera!

Senator Estes Kefauver has issued a statement indicating his cousin hat is almost in the ring. The question is whether or not he is about to take a higher leap than the sensational one taken by Abe Reles from that Coney Island hotel window. The following telegrams to the Senator are reported:

VIRGINIA HILL: Don't ask me if you can make it. All I know is that quiz programs can get terrific results. Look at Rudie Halley: he won an election, a radio program and a third honeymoon.

FRANK COSTELLO: I am behind you to my fingertips, beyond which I never go on video. JIM MORAN: Now it's my turn to ask a question. Where will you be on the night of November 6, 1952? Answer yes or no.

POLICE INSPECTOR BALS: Just read news. Can't figure whether you are sliding down rope for a serious purpose or to play joke on the lookout squad, but an increasing police guard.

Well, we look for an early statement of the Kefauver platform and hope it will bring answers to these queries:

1.—How do you intend to curb inflation, and on what panel?

2.—Will you stand for the full dinner pail and if so will it include a supper hour television program?

3.—Do you think the budget can be balanced only by a cost-to-cost hookup or can it be done via local stations?

4.—Will you run on an old video film or a new one?

5.—Will you give a direct answer to this question: Can there be any hope for higher morals and a return to old-time standards in America as long as any presidential candidate is allowed to run for more than ONE TERM?

Of course, the Senator may not really be going all out for the Presidency. He may be giving us a revival of "The Tennessee Waltz." But a campaign entitled "From Video To White House" or "Through The Rapids By Quiz And Camera" would be exciting, full face or profile. With Estes in the White House there would be an end to evasions, behind-door conferences and under-the-table routines. The camera would come into its day of glory. People would know what was going on.

We can even see a "Breakfast With the Kefauvers" hour every morning, with at least a weekly tour of the White House for television addicts and certainly a Washington "Meet the Press" with nothing off the record and everything on the screen.

We are organizing the "Kefauver For President Clubs of America." Get aboard! With Estes and television hooked up we will be able to go all through the Presidential yacht sometime between Howdy Doody and Twenty Questions and go fishing with a President in the long lull between Mike and Buff and We The People.

Hansen To Head County Cancer Drive

Dr. Jordan Announces Appointment

Former district attorney Detlef A. Hansen was named yesterday as chairman of the local 1952 Cancer Crusade by Dr. Claus Jordan, president of the Monroe county unit.

Hansen has served previously as treasurer of the Monroe county chapter of the American Red Cross, following World War Two and as an official of the Dutch Treat club and other organizations in Stroudsburg.

A member of the board of Stroudsburg Methodist church he also conducts a Sunday school class at that church.

Detlef A. Hansen

Hansen's appointment to the local post was announced in a bulletin from the Cancer society's State headquarters in Harrisburg. Contained in the bulletin was official notification of the appointment of Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the Pennsylvania State College as chairman of the Pennsylvania State Cancer Crusade for 1952.

A division goal of $880,000 has been set for Pennsylvania in the 1952 campaign which begins officially in April.

Most of the funds collected in the drive will be used for further research into the causes and potential cures for cancer. Publicity during the campaign will lean heavily upon education of the public in various aspects of the disease.

Long To Direct Dimes Campaign

Bangor—Edward H. Long will again head the March of Dimes campaign here. It will be his 15th successive year as chairman.

The treasurer is Charles R. Steinmetz. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Laura Wolfe, Mrs. Besie Busenger, Julius Kristof, Herbert Roth and Charles Wagner.

The committee hopes to better the $1,300 raised last year.

Firemen To Unite For Services

Members of Monroe county's volunteer fire companies were invited yesterday by officers of Acme Hose Co., East Stroudsburg to join in annual worship services honoring Benjamin Franklin, founder of the first volunteer fire company.

Services are scheduled for 11 a. m. January 20 in First Presbyterian church, East Stroudsburg. Rev. Frank Wingerter will present an appropriate sermon.

Volunteer firemen who attend this service are asked to meet at Acme Hose Co. at 10:30 a. m. so all those attending move to reserved section of the church in a group. Dress is optional. Probably the host company will wear their firemen's dress uniforms.

Franklin's birthday anniversary falls on Jan. 17. The worship service is being held on the Sunday nearest that date.

Acme Answers 39 Alarms, Confines Loss To $7,810

Men of Acme Hose Co. No. 1, East Stroudsburg, responded to a total of 39 alarms in the borough in 1951, Fire Chief Marvin Abel reported yesterday.

The company's assistance was not required at any fires outside the borough.

Most of the fires—20 in number—occurred between noon and 6 p. m., the report showed.

Of the total number of fires, 15 were at dwellings; one at a commercial building; one in a railroad car; four in autos; two in garages; two in rubbish heaps; and 10 grass fires. There was one false alarm.

Chief Abel listed probable causes in the three largest classifications as: Eight fires set by children; seven through carelessness in the use of blowtorch, paint remover, or rubbish-burning; and five caused by defective heating systems and chimneys.

Although total value of buildings and contents involved was estimated at $254,000, loss to owners through fire damage was set at a comparatively low $7,810.

Abel also reported that on the total alarms 163 pieces of equipment rolled, and a lengthy 13,312 feet of hose of various sizes were laid.

Some 1,165 men responded on the total alarms, with an average of 30 men per fire. There was a total of 29 hours spent in actual fire-fighting, and the average fire lasted 44 minutes. A total of 654 man-hours were spent extinguishing blazes, and three firemen were injured while responding to alarms.

Judge Davis May Resign C. D. Position

President Judge Fred W. Davis this Spring may ask to be relieved of his duties as civil defense director of the county.

Judge Davis made the disclosure informally while discussing other matters with the county commissioners this week.

He has headed Civil Defense in the county since its beginning, more than a year ago.

The judge set no definite date for his retirement as director.

"Perhaps within two or three months," he said.

The judge added he would like to see the county Civil Defense program in good working order, "and then I shall step aside."

Judge Davis' assistant in Civil Defense matters is Jack Anderson of Swiftwater.

Police Complete Identification Of Three Men Killed When Stolen Car Skids Into Bus

Blakeslee—Police yesterday established the identity of three young men who died Tuesday as the stolen car in which they were riding crashed into a Greyhound bus ten miles northwest of here on Route 115.

The dead are:
Joseph Patrick Costa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patric Costa, Whitestone, Flushing, L. I.

Robert and Ronald Sato, sons of Mrs. Adeline Sato Markarian, Jackson Heights, L. I. Police said the brothers lived at 5225 E. Sixth St., New York.

A fourth youth riding in the car, George P. Coveney, 17, College Point, Flushing, L. I., is in a serious condition in Wilkes-Barre.

The bus driver, William Ivory, of Philadelphia, and six of the nine passengers in his vehicle were injured slightly. All live in the Wilkes-Barre region.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kerz Jr.

Miss Muriel J. Evans, John Kerz Jr., Joined In Wedlock

Mountaintop—Miss Muriel Jane Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Evans, Mountaintop, became the bride of John Kerz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kerz, of Canadensis, on Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in the Canadensis Methodist church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by candlelight service, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, by the Rev. Claude L. Holtenman, pastor of the bride and bridegroom. Miss Gail Young, church organist, rendered suitable wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a pink quilted dress with white corsage. She was attended by her sister, Miss Doris Elaine Evans, who was attired in metallic dress with a corsage of yellow roses.

The bridegroom for his best man Frank Meinweiser Jr., Ushers were Ray Krump, cousin of the bridegroom, and Paul A. Evans, brother of the bride.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a teal blue suit with black accessories, while the bride's mother wore a violet dress with black accessories.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was tendered an informal reception by more than a hundred relatives and friends in the church basement.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of the Barrett High school. The bride is employed as a bookkeeper for the Stroudsburg Security Trust Co. The bridegroom has entered the armed forces and will leave shortly for training with the U. S. Air Force. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Kerz left for a brief tour of New York and New England states. Following their return the bride will reside with her parents.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Thursday, in most households, is not the day to drop in for pot-luck. Somehow or other inspiration, ingredients and leftovers all run out at the same time, leaving only appetites.

If you do decide to renew your enthusiasm for cooking by reading the cookbook and coming up with something a little different—then you'll discover that you're out of baking powder or onions or vinegar—or whatever is the key thing you need to make whatever it is.

That's the day you run short of potatoes, have to heat the shortening can to melt the final drop of shortening out, and find the refrigerator stocked with little dips and dabs of things that you can't combine into anything anybody ever heard of.

Of course, you may try to in desperation but it usually comes to the table looking as if you'd upset the garbage bag.

Think a man would make a fortune inventing a new animal to eat only on Thursdays. Preferably with meat that you could broil in the ten minutes between the time you get home from the store and the time everybody has to eat dinner or be late for something.

Republican Women Hear Health Talk

Norman A. Peil, of Easton, president of the Northampton Board of County Commissioners, discussed the Public Health act of Pennsylvania and how it could be applied at a county level at the meeting of the Monroe Council of Republican Women at the Monroe County YMCA yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. J. Russell Custard, the president, was in charge of the meeting. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Irving Kiffin, while the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Spencer Cramer.

Mrs. Peil, presented by Mrs. Foster Minnich, program chairman, showed by example that the health authority doesn't extend far enough at the present time and how the height of cooperation can be obtained through a very flexible arrangement.

The program, he said has many possibilities, which, however, can be destroyed by over enthusiasm. He pointed out the State Department of Health is considered too big and remote to bring direct health services to people economically and efficiently.

The establishment of a local health service in the department of health, he said, will be an important step toward adequate local health service.

Functions of a local health unit would provide needed services, control of communicable diseases, environmental sanitation, laboratory services, maternal and child health, vital statistics and health education, the speaker concluded.

Mrs. Paul Lloyd, membership chairman, presented 12 new members as follows: Mrs. Mildred Rice, Mrs. Lee Bitner, Mrs. Arthur George, Mrs. Clair Hay, Mrs. Philip Henning, Mrs. Charles Auger, Mrs. Maurice Edinger, Mrs. Merrill Dennis, Mrs. Jane Drake, Mrs. John Durkee, Mrs. Arthur L. Brown and Mrs. Gertrude Crompton.

Mrs. John Kichen read a copy of a letter written to President Truman by Paul McDonald, a Harvard student, whose friend, Dwight Hewitt was killed in Korea: "If I am called to service will my devotion and, perhaps life, be wasted too?" which was pointed out as one of many questions asked of the president.

A report was given on the club's Christmas project bringing happiness to friends at the country home by Mrs. Harry Buckman, Buckman.

Miss Aimee Girard, congressional chairman, spoke of the bells ringing in the new year 1952, facing a year of decision questioning whether they would down out the discord, which she said no one can tell.

Holiday Party P. M. Club Is Attractive

Swiftwater — The PM club of Swiftwater held their holiday party recently at the home of Miss Audrey Hamblin, with the following members present: Mrs. Paul Failor, Mrs. Willard Webster, Mrs. William McCoy, Mrs. David Nelson, Mrs. John Hamblin, Mrs. Norman Fanson, Mrs. Russell Knerr, Mrs. Carl Hamblin, and the hostess.

As each guest arrived, she was given a Christmas corsage. The room was attractively decorated with a tree and other greens. An exchange of gifts followed by drawing names for new secret pals, made for a delightful night.

Refreshments consisted of ice cream, cookies and beverage, served on individual trays. On each tray was a candle in the shape of a rocking horse, and when they were served, the candles were lighted and the electric lights turned off, making a very striking effect.

Mrs. Willard Webster was accepted as a new member. The next regular meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Paul Failor, Mount Pocono, on Thursday, January 31.

Local Faculty Members Social

The faculty members of the Ramsey and Morey elementary schools held a post Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Benet Strail, Delaware Water Gap, last night.

A covered dish supper was served which was followed with a social time during which cards were played. The table was attractively decorated by the committee in charge.

Miss Beatty is a graduate of Springfield High school and is attending West Chester State Teachers College. Mr. Frailey attended Pocono Township High school and is employed at the Line Material Company of Pennsylvania in East Stroudsburg. No date has been set for the wedding.

James Harron Is Chosen Teacher

James H. Harron, of East Stroudsburg, has been appointed a substitute teacher at Wilson Borough High school, Easton, William P. Tollinger, superintendent, has announced.

Mr. Harron will receive a bachelor of science degree in health education at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College on January 17. He will teach the algebra class at Wilson High.

Grange Head Names New Dept. Heads

New members were received and various leaders for activities were appointed at the meeting of Cherry Valley Grange, 1821, Stroudsburg, Tuesday night with James Cyphers, the master, presiding.

Singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" with Mrs. Anne Schoeber, accompanist, opened the meeting. The candidates received were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Foust and Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Altomose.

Mrs. Margaret Getz was appointed chairlady of the Home Economics department, with Mrs. Ruth Siproth and Mrs. Helen Rogers assistants. Mrs. Getz and Mrs. Siproth matron were named sister matron and assistant respectively of the Juvenile grange.

Other appointments were Mrs. Evelyn Seidoff assistant secretary and Mrs. Elizabeth Majestic in charge of publicity.

During the literary program each member was asked their preference of places for travel. While the answers naturally were varied, several stated they preferred staying near the Stroudsburgs.

Birthday Today

Mrs. Arthur Bond, of 18 N. Third St., Stroudsburg, is quietly celebrating her birthday today receiving the well wishes of her many friends.

Square Dance

A square dance will be held at the Cherry Valley grange hall in Stroudsburg Saturday night of this week. Raymond Poortstra and James Cyphers will do the calling. The Blue Mountain Plow Boys will furnish the music. There will also be a cakewalk.

There are usually eight to ten frankfurters in a pound.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

I don't know how you feel about it, but I'm excited. This is the first time I've participated in a rummage sale at Wyckoff's, and from all one hears it's bound to be quite an event. Knowing the sale was to begin today, the Shopper has been pussyfooting around all week trying to get a line on all the things being sent to the second floor by the various department heads, and it's very obvious that bargains galore will beckon the thrifty shopper these next few days.

In the past, shoppers have been lined up in the morning waiting for the doors to open. And it is believed that their purchases were so pleasing to them, history can be expected to repeat itself today.

Just between us, I'm not supposed to tell what is being offered . . . but . . . well, I can't really see any harm in giving a friend a few tips, can you? Not that I'd come right out and say there will be cookie cutters, molds, lamp shades, beautiful children's shoes in special sizes, plastic salad bowls, silverplate, taffeta slips and buttons. But there's no harm in just saying that almost every department is represented by something worth having, and that prices are lower than winter temperatures.

If one really set out to tell about today's event, hundreds of items could be listed. But why spoil the fun? After all, half the joy of any sale is the customer's sense of anticipation; the delightful feeling that right there on the very next counter is the precise thing she has subconsciously craved for years. Isn't it true, actually, that most of us go through life believing within our hearts that someday, in some unexpected way, we'll experience some wonderful, enriching stroke of luck? Most of us follow that thought as though we were metal and it was a magnet; we go to rummage sales and auctions . . . and enjoy ourselves heartily.

This morning the Wyckoff Shopper broadcast will take place right from the rummage sale. If you're here will YOU say something? While you're at the mike, the Shopper will SHOP.

Frankenfield New President Of Y Board

Dayton W. Frankenfield was elected president of the board of directors of the Monroe County YMCA at a meeting at the Wyck-off team room Tuesday night. He succeeds James T. Kitson, who had requested being relieved from the responsibility, but remains a member of the board.

The annual election of directors took place earlier. Re-elected were: A. W. Williams, Edward C. Hess, A. J. Zabriskie, Frank L. Stackhouse, Thomas Kistler, Harry Kresge and Mr. Kitson. New members are Ted Hoffman and Beatrice C. Toewe, all for three-year terms.

The other officers elected by the board are: First vice president, J. Albert Groner, second vice president, Mr. Hess; secretary, Charles A. Keiper, and treasurer Roy M. Houser, for his 39th term. Mr. Houser has held the office since the institution of the Y in 1913.

The board commended Mr. Kitson and Mr. Houser for their services.

General Secretary John R. Wilson reported the $450 World Service goal had been reached within a few dollars. He told that the various organizations of the Y had contributed liberally toward the fund.

Mr. Wilson spoke of the numerous Christmas parties held by the groups of the Y, paying particular attention to that of the craft shop under the direction of John DeVivo and the Bible study group under "Dick" Wilson. The meeting of the Foremen's club was also mentioned as having been unusually well attended.

The Y was crowded with boys during the entire week between Christmas and New Year's. Wilson said Open House New Year's day climaxed the week's activities when a full day's program of activities was carried out.

A number of the boys visited the Easton Y during the holiday period to enjoy the facilities of the swimming pool, the secretary reported.

The public speaking class will conclude its program with a dinner meeting at the Log house Thursday night, January 24. Mr. Wilson said it had been one of the most successful since the project was started. There are 17 men and women members of the class. The directors were invited to participate in the supper meeting.

Mr. Wilson gave the financial report and also stated there was an increase in membership over a year ago.

Directors in attendance at the meeting were: T. J. Kitson, C. A. Keiper, A. F. Everitt, Paul Edinger, Earl F. Groner, A. W. Williams, E. C. Hess, F. L. Stackhouse, D. W. Frankenfield, A. J. Zabriskie, Roy M. Houser, Harry Kresge, Dr. J. F. Noonan and General Secretary Wilson.

East Stroudsburg Police Arrest 654 During Year

East Stroudsburg police made a total of 654 arrests during 1951, Chief Art Swink said yesterday.

The majority of the arrests were connected with motor vehicle operation and traffic violations with 222 drivers cited for driving at an "excessive rate of speed."

Sixty-two drivers were arrested for stop sign violations; 17 for parking violations; 5 for reckless driving; 2 for operating a vehicle with an unlicensed operator's license; 11 for overtime parking; 6, operating a vehicle without a license; 1 for permitting an unlicensed operator to drive; 17, "running red lights"; 1 for crossing railroad tracks against the signal; 2 for improper passing and 1 for failing to stop on the signal of a police officer.

"Drunk and disorderly" persons accounted for 81 arrests, with 46 arrests made for "disorderly conduct." Six drivers were arrested for driving while intoxicated.

During 1951 seven persons were arrested on charges of larceny and one on a charge of car theft.

Three burglary arrests were made during the year with one person arrested on a charge of "panhandling."

Rink To Stage Benefit For Polio Drive

Another benefit has been added to the growing list of affairs being scheduled to aid the 1952 March of Dimes campaign, J. L. Cohen, campaign chairman said yesterday.

The Stroud Roller Rink at the CLU park will stage a skating party Jan. 27 to aid the effort.

Fifty percent of each net-admission will be donated to the campaign effort. Plans call for a skating party of at least 200 people.

Roy Kinney, rink manager, said he is arranging a special program mit was issued by the borough police at $25.

Total income for the year was placed at $6,202. Of this amount $290 went to the State. The remaining $5,912 was kept by the borough.

Lehigh Valley High pushed itself right into the middle of the pennant fight in the Lehigh Valley League on Tuesday night with a 64-62 victory over Palmerton, the first time in ten years that the Indians have been able to scalp the Blue Bombers. The victory didn't come as too much of a surprise to those who have been following the Lehigh Valley club this year, especially when the Indians battled Catawqua, rated the top club in the league, right down to the wire last Friday before bowing by a 71-68 count.

The Indians, who now feature a circuit mark of one win and the same number of setbacks, will make their annual pilgrimage to Stroudsburg tomorrow, to do battle with the Stroudsburg Mountaineers, who have dropped both their league outings to date. Friday's contest appears destined to be a real battle, especially if Captain Alden "Red" Fetherman is able to campaign for the Mountaineers. The charges of Coach Sam Russell will be attempting to escape the bottom spot in the standings, while Lehigh Valley will be equally determined to remain in the thick of the fight for the top spot.

High school basketball in the Stroudsburg continues to operate on a feast or famine basis, as both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg return to their home boards tomorrow after playing the past two games on the road. It looks like one of those nights in which this writer will have to take in the first half of one school and the third and fourth quarters on the other side of the big bridge. The fact that power packed Coplay will be at East Stroudsburg points to two good games on the same night.

Those that saw Parkland take the measure of East Stroudsburg last Friday and Wilson Borough turn the same trick against the Cavaliers on Tuesday of this week find it tough to believe that Wilson actually won over Parkland. Parkland took the measure of the Cavaliers by 40 points, while Wilson was quite fortunate to trip the charges of Coach Dick Forster by a scant two counters. However, the way this modern game of basketball is played it's almost impossible to even guess the actions of any team from one night to the next.

Ray Steele, high scoring East Stroudsburg center, was held to eight points by Wilson, as one defender played in front of the lanky ball-hawk and another directly behind the top point producer. Gene Caski, Stroudsburg's equally high scoring center, was held to five points by a tight Emmaus defense. However, the Mountaineers were hurt in all departments by the absence of Fetherman from the lineup. Emmaus Coach Ken Meyer is a former football and basketball performer at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. This is Ken's initial season at the Emmaus helm.

Hellertown, champion of the most recent Lehigh Valley Invitation Basketball tournament, was rewarded with $436 as its share of the gate. Second place Easton was given $348. Allentown Central Catholic and Bethlehem, $261 each, while Bethlehem Catholic, Coplay, Parkland and Shatington each came up with $174.40 for their respective athletic funds. Elmer Valo, outfielder for the Philadelphia A's, was one of the officials in last Monday's court tilt between Polk and Mauch Chunk High schools, on the latter's floor.

Followers of the Blue Mountain Baseball league might be interested in knowing that Melvin Ruloff has been elected president of Tatum A. A. Other officials named to this organization are Chester Huber, vice president; Ted Heiney, secretary, and Karl Johnson, treasurer. The recent election took place at the Tatum fire house, the same place at which the circuit is slated to hold its annual banquet next month. The eyes of the Lehigh Valley Basketball league will be on Catawqua tonight, with Palmerton supplying the opposition.

Red Sox Slugger Recalled To Active Duty By Marine Corps

Boston, (AP)—Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox $100,000-plus slugger, yesterday was recalled by the U. S. Marines for what is expected to be at least 17 months of active service.

A flying instructor in the corps from 1943-45, Williams has been ordered to report at nearby Squantum for a physical examination April 2. If found physically fit, he will start eight weeks of indoctrination training at the Willow Grove Naval Reserve base near Philadelphia on May 2.

Reports from Washington were that Williams, now 33, is one of several hundred of former Marine flyers recalled to provide replacements for Korean veterans soon to be released from active duty.

Fishing
When the announcement was made Williams was fishing in the Gulf of Mexico.

Williams, as far as Red Sox General Manager, Joe Cronin knows, was not attached to any organized reserve unit. And neither had he taken any post-war flying training.

In Washington a Marine Corps spokesman said Williams would be ranked as a captain and would be required to serve 17 months, the statutory limit for reserve officers recalled involuntarily.

"Williams will be a terrific loss to us, despite the fact we have seven other outfielders," Cronin said. "We had no warning of his recall. He'll be hard to replace, but we'll make the best of it."

"I haven't heard anything from Williams about this," Cronin continued. "Therefore I do not know his plans. It would appear from his orders that he would be able to start spring practice with us in Sarasota on March 1 and probably play the first two weeks of the regular season. But that's up to him."

Cronin said that Williams' 1952 contract was mailed from Fenway Park a few days ago.

Panzer's Third Period Spurt Downs ESSTC

Schmidt Tallies 20 Points In Losing Cause

East Orange, N.J. — Panzer College combined the fast break with a deliberate style of ball handling last night to hang an 85-72 licking on East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, here on the winning team's home boards. It was the fourth defeat in six outings for the Warriors, who now face more than two weeks of idleness before playing host to Millersville, on Saturday, January 26.

The Warriors managed to stay in the thick of the battle during the first half, on the field goal production of Bill Schmidt and the dead-eye performance of Jim Frawley from the foul line, where he enjoyed a perfect six-for-six mark.

Panzer rang up three quick field goals in the first period, before Schmidt rang the bell on as many foul shots to get the visiting Warriors into the scoring column. Play raged up and down the court throughout the first two periods, with the count being tied 12-12 in the middle of the first round and ESSTC enjoying a 20-18 edge at the end of the first ten minutes of action.

All Even
The home team fought its way back into an even position in the second round, by outscoring the visiting contingent, 19-17. The count was deadlocked at 37-all at the end of the opening half.

Panzer went into its deliberate ball handling routine in the third stanza and promptly put the contest on ice. John Marra and Gordon Mills began to find the range from outside and veteran Joe Guthrie took over control of both boards. When the third round passed into history the Panthers had accounted for 30 points, as compared to 17 for the visiting Warriors.

Both clubs registered 18*points during the last ten minutes of action, but the Warriors were hampered by the loss of Schmidt, at the beginning of the final round, and Bill Coleman, midway in the period, on five personal fouls.

ESSTC held a decided edge in the foul shooting department, making 22 of 29 charity tosses, while Panzer could make only 13 of 32 attempts from the same mark. A total of 61 foul shots were taken during the contest.

Associated Press Rates Drive To Pennant By Giants As Number One Comeback Of Year

BY Murray Rose

New York (AP)—It was even too incredible for a Hollywood writer to dream up and yet it happened. It had to happen to be believed. It came to realization at 3:58 p.m. on October 3 when Bobby Thomson smashed his never-to-be-forgotten home run in the ninth inning to give the Giants a 5-4 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers and the National league pennant.

The electrifying hit climaxed the most astounding comeback in the history of baseball—a sustained, determined rally that brought Leo Durocher's fighting men a pennant after they had trailed the free-wheeling Dodgers by 1½ games as late as August 11.

And so it comes as no surprise that the cinderella rise of the Giants was voted the greatest comeback by a team or individual in 1951—a year of amazing occurrences and resurgences.

Of 214 sportswriters and sportscasters who participated in the Associated Press' annual poll, 165 voted the New Yorkers' pennant triumph as the number one comeback.

In second place was ancient Jersey Joe Walcott's seventh round knockout of Ezzard Charles on July 18 which gave the 37-year-old gladiator the heavy-weight championship in his fifth try at the title.

Walcott received 27 first place votes. On a point basis of three for first, two for second, and one for third, the Giants accumulated 549 points to Walcott's 127.

Third place went to 33-year-old Bobby Feller who finished with a 22-8 record—his first game or better season since 1947—to top the heavy duty hurlers in the American league with a .733 percentage. Feller, who had a 16-11 record for 1950, netted 52 points and two first place ballots.

Behind Feller came the football Indians of Stanford who swept to the Pacific Coast Conference championship and into the Rose Bowl, 47 points; Ben Hogan, the indomitable Texan who surged from behind on the last 18 holes to win the U.S. Open golf championship, 40; the Chicago White Sox, who put up a gallant battle during the first half of the American league race and finished fourth, two places better than they did in 1950, 33; and Ray Robinson, who wiped away the blood streaming down his face from an eye cut and stopped powerful Randy Turpin in the tenth round to regain the middle weight crown, 32.

These were the headline-capturing comebacks of the year.

Deer Head Inn and the Veterans of Foreign Wars registered victories in Industrial League activity at the Monroe County YMCA last night. The Deer Head club took the measure of Worthington Mower, 56-33, while the Vets were strong enough to down the Eagles, 47-36.

Harold Freeman, John Drew and John Howe were the guiding lights for the Deer Head tribe in the opening contest, as the Delaware Water Gap representatives took over the front running spot early in the first round and dominated the game the remainder of the distance.

Tough Time

The Eagles gave the Vets a run for their money through the early stages of the second game, holding an 18-14 lead at the halfway mark. However, the VFW contingent found the range in the second half and went on to hang up the victory.

Ramblers, Wyckoff-Sears Gain Nods In Biddy Basketball Loop

Nash Ramblers and Wyckoff-Sears scored victories in the Biddy Basketball league yesterday afternoon, at the Monroe County YMCA. The Ramblers nipped Line Material in the opening game, 17-16, while Wyckoff-Sears took the measure of the Colonial Diner in the nightcap.

The Ramblers used a strong second half to overcome a deficit of five points at the halfway mark. The winning aggregation dominated the third round, 5-1, then put the contest on ice with a 5-3 advantage in the fourth and final round.

Early Edge

Wyckoff-Sears jumped into a four-point lead at the end of the first quarter and held the upper hand the remainder of the distance, although the Colonial Diner cagers rallied strongly in the fourth stanza, only to fall eight points short of deadlocking the count.

Martins Creek Wins Pair From Portland

Portland — Martins Creek school captured a pair of basketball games from Portland yesterday, here on the losing club's home hardwood. Martins Creek won the boys' contest by a 38-30 count, while the girls from Martins Creek gained a 22-14 verdict over the Portland belles.

Alex Camano, a sixth grade student, led the Martins Creek boys to their favorable decision, as the young sharpshooter accounted for 14 points, on five field goals and four from the foul line.

Scoring

Camano led the visitors into a 14-6 lead at the end of the first quarter, then into a 21-10 advantage at halftime. Portland came back to dominate the third round, 14-3, but Camano returned to the contest in the fourth period, as the visiting club led the contest with a 14-6 edge in the scoring.

Martins Creek also held the upperhand throughout the girls' contest, although Portland once again managed to play its best ball in the third stanza.

Musial Seeks Salary Boost

Washington, (AP)—Stan Musial, the National league's top 1951 slugger, came to town to see his old friend Secretary of Labor Tobin yesterday—and incidentally, to knock out a solid ground ball to the salary stabilization board.

Board officials picked up the ball and promised a speedy two-day inquiry into the knotty question of salary limits for ball players.

Stan has a problem and so has his boss, Fred Sahlgren, president of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Under stabilization rules, no ball player can get raised beyond the salary of the top-paid player of his club in 1950.

But Stan, five-time National league batting champ who hit .355 last season, is already the Card's top money man. His salary in 1950 was about $50,000 a year. The Cards gave the Donora, Pa., star a substantial boost last year, reportedly to $85,000. But he has never collected the extra $35,000, because Federal regulations "froze" him at his 1950 salary.

New Laws Promote Patriotic Education, Driver Training

Harrisburg, (AP)—New State laws encouraging driver training courses and patriotic instruction in Pennsylvania schools were signed yesterday by Gov. John S. Fine.

One new act makes State aid available for the first time to public schools offering driver training programs. It boosts State learner's permits from $2 to $4 to provide the money.

Another new law requires all schools, public, private and parochial, to offer a minimum of one period of patriotic instruction each week as an alternative to conducting daily flag allegiance ceremonies.

Such instruction would be in the form of promoting allegiance to the flag and the American form of government. It would not be required in most schools however, according to the Department of Public Instruction, since alternative daily flag allegiance ceremonies are now widely conducted.

The new driver training law requires the Public Instruction department to set up a standardized driver training program and supervise its operation in all participating schools.

Schools adopting such programs would be eligible for State aid up to $10 for each participating student. Students under 15 would receive only classroom instruction in driver safety, while those over 15 would get actual driving instruction.

Stentor, a native of early Greece, was said to have a voice as loud as that of 50 men. The word, "stentorian", derives from him.

COIN BOX Rate Hike Explained

Harrisburg, (AP)—You'll pay more to talk less from public telephones if the Public Utility commission approves a new rate increase proposed by the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania.

Bell has asked PUC permission to discard the traditional nickel coin box call, effective March 7, and substitute rates ranging from 10 cents up for local calls.

A study of the rate schedule yesterday showed that the increased rate would apply only to a four-minute local call. An extra charge of five cents would be made for each additional two minutes.

Present rates are five cents for the first five minutes and five cents more for an additional five minutes or fraction thereof.

That would make a 10-minute local call cost 25 cents under the new rate schedule instead of the present 10 cents.

Bell estimates that the increased revenue from the increased coin box calls would amount to $3,744,000 a year before taxes or $3,670,400 after taxes.

The entire increase sought by Bell in Pennsylvania amounts to $32,355,600 with the rest coming from residential and business subscribers.

(The Blakeslee and Fern Ridge Telephone Co., Pocono Lake, an independent company, also has petitioned the PUC for permission to increase its coin box rate to 10 cents. The present rate is five cents.)

Sunlight is about 618,000 times as bright as the light of the full moon.

More than 50 per cent of the total body weight consists of water.

Newfoundland Court Rules For Man Shot By Bartender

Philadelphia, (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme court ruled yesterday that a bartender is exceeding the scope of his job when he shoots a customer in the neck to keep order.

A common Pleas court jury had ruled that the owner of the Zaney bar in Philadelphia should pay $3,800 to Eugene Howard, 22-year-old paperhanger. Howard testified he was shot by bartender Herbert Miles on Feb. 9, 1949.

The jury ruling was reversed later by Common Pleas Judge Frank Smith and Howard appealed to the Supreme court.

In his opinion, Justice Allen M. Stearns said:

"When the bartender, because the plaintiff made advance to a girl sitting next to him, pulled out a gun and shot the plaintiff, the bartender then departed from the scope of his employment."

Archbishop Installed In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, (AP)—Amid the splendor and solemnity of Roman Catholic liturgy, Most Rev. John Francis O'Hara was enthroned yesterday as archbishop of Philadelphia.

In accepting his new task as spiritual leader of 1,071,000 Catholics, the archbishop told the more than 2,000 religious and lay people, "I have no program to announce, nothing to preach but the love of God."

"The law of love," he said, "enables those who practice it. All that is beautiful in human nature, all that is good, all that is true, proceeds from it."

Behind the altar, suspended from the ceiling was a red cardinal's hat, memorial of the new shepherd's predecessor, Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, who died May 31. The hat, given to the cardinal at his installation in Rome, was hung in the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul after his death last May 31, to remain until it falls away in dust.

Long before the installation began a procession, watched from outside the cathedral by hundreds of men, women, and children, brought to the ceremonies nearly 2,000 churchmen and dignitaries. Hundreds of white cassocked seminarians led the slow-moving procession. Incense from dozens of censers made fragrant the great domed cathedral.

Priests followed the seminarians, followed by more than 50 bishops, then archbishops and finally Archbishop O'Hara wearing the gold mitre and robes of his office.

The new archbishop, 63, has been bishop of Buffalo since 1945, and is a former president of the University of Notre Dame.

Ventriliquist On Program Of All-Star Show

One of the outstanding ventriliquists of modern times, Phil Wayne, "Man of Many Voices" and a favorite of TV fans the country over, has been scheduled to appear at the All Star Variety show at the Stroudsburg High school auditorium, January 16, under the auspices of Temple Israel.

Mr. Wayne operates and gives speech to a stable of about six different dummies. Some of these dummies have novel features such as faces caricatured on the back of his hand. By manipulating his fingers in an amazingly dextrous fashion he produces facial motions in these dummies that are astonishingly lifelike.

Mr. Wayne has just completed a tour of the nation's leading theaters. Most recently he has been seen on the following TV shows: Toast of the Town, Milton Berle show and Ken Murray show. He also has been featured at the famous Latin Quarters in New York.

General admission tickets to the All Star show are now on sale at Wyckoff's and in a number of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg stores. Only a limited number of seats are available.

Myers Institutes Training Program For Boys In Korea

Pfc. Theodore Myers, former industrial arts instructor at East Stroudsburg Junior High school now stationed with the Second Division in Korea, has initiated a training program especially designed for Korean houseboys.

The program, according to an article in a December issue of Stars and Stripes, consists of a basic curriculum which includes "standard English grammar, simple arithmetic and history."

Myers conducts the school, with another teacher, during two hours each day when he is not on duty as a switchboard operator with the 38th Field Artillery. The former local teacher says Korean students "always have their homework ready—they're not like most of our own kids."

Myers wife, Adelaide, lives at their home, 578 N. Courtland, East Stroudsburg.

Ten of the 59 judges who signed the death warrant of Charles I were executed at the Restoration in 1660.
